Major General William B. Fulton To Command Fort Lewis

Major General William B. Fulton

Major General Alexander R. Bolling

Fort Lewis, Wash. — Major General Alexander R. Bolling, Jr., Fort Lewis commander since February last year, is scheduled to leave in May for duty as the U.S. Army member of the Joint Brazil-U.S. Defense Commission.

Command of Fort Lewis—and the soon-to-be activated 9th Infantry Division—will pass to Major General William B. Fulton May 24, who as a one-star general helped ready the 9th for service in Vietnam in 1966.

Then the Division's assistant commander, he had a key role in organizing its Mobile Riverine Force, an Army-Navy team which hunted down Viet Cong units in the Mekong Delta area.

For General Bolling, the new assignment will be his second experience with the U.S.-Brazil military group. After studying Portuguese in 1948, he was sent to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, as aide-de-camp to the commission's Army section. He was a captain then.

General Bolling, 49, is a 1943 graduate of West Point. He served in France and Germany in World War II—for a time with a division commanded by his father—and was captured by the Germans in early 1945. His third attempt at escape from a POW camp was successful.

He led a brigade of the 82nd Airborne Division in the liberation of the city of Hue following the enemy's 1968 Tet Offensive, and like Gensral Fulton, was assigned to the Army's Force Development office before his assignment to Fort Lewis.

General Fulton, 52, earned a Regular Army commission as a distinguished ROTC graduate at the University of California in 1942. He was born in Berkeley, where the California campus is located.

He fought as an infantry officer in Italy in World War II and has since served in Germany, Japan and Korea.

Following his service in Vietnam, he was named deputy commanding general of Fort Polk, Louisiana, and then headed a special Army study group on surveillance, target acquisition and night observation.

His present job is Director of Doctrine Evaluation and Command Systems in the Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Force Development, Department of the Army.

Link Announces Sickle Cell Clinic

For more than a year the Tacoma Chapter of Links, a Black women's civic organization has been on the front lines of the continuing battle against the nations number one most neglected major health problem, Sickle Cell Anemia. For two weeks, May 1st thru 15th, the Links will combine forces with local school, health organizations and civic organizations in effort to test an unprecedented 1,500 persons in Tacoma and Pierce County.

Sickle cell anemia is a hereditary blood disorder in which the normal doughnut shaped red blood cells become elongated or sickle shaped. When in this sickle shape, these cells cannot carry enough oxygen to vital organs like the heart, lungs, brain, and kidneys, causing possible pain and extreme tiredness.

It is estimated that over sixty thousand Blacks in the U.S. or 1 in 400 has the disease and that two million or 1 in 10 has the less serious sickle cell trait. A person with only the trait can live a normal healthy life, but parents who both have the disease stand a chance than one in four of their children could have the disease.

The testing clinic is being jointly sponsored by the Links, the Tacoma School District, The Sickle Cell Anemia Committee of Pierce County, The Tacoma Health Department, and the March of Dimes.

"This year we are going to concentrate on testing the entire family," said Mrs. Harold Moss, Links project chairman.

The test, which takes about fifteen painless minutes will be available from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m. at the following locations: May 1, McIlveigh· May 3, McCarver; May 8, Jason Lee; and May 11, Gault.

For additional information call Mrs. Harold G. Moss, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday at the Y.W.C.A., BR 2-4181.

LENNY WILKENS

A COACH, A PLAYER, AND A MAN

By this time, just about every sports editor, columnist and self-appointed expert has had his say about the Lenny Wilkens matter. The opinions were almost as varied as the number of opinions offered in the press, over the air, and on the tube. The volume of comment has pretty well exhausted the topic; in fact, the pundits now have a new guessing game to play—speculating on just who will succeed Lenny as Sonics coach.

There is very little the FACTS could say that hasn't already been thoroughly hashed on the subject of Lenny Wilkens the coach, and Lennie Wilkens the player.

But there is a lot we would like to say about Lenny Wilkens the man.

During his reign as player-coach, Lenny exhibited the stuff of which sports heroes are made.

The young people love Lenny Wilkens, and what's more important, they imitate him. They admire his style; cool, calm and collected. Lenny, they tell me, has "got it all together."

Their parents share this enthusiasm for a young man who has been able to retain his dignity and commonsense during a long period of extreme pressures.

And there have been many pressures brought to bear on this young man. In his dual role as coach and player, Lenny Wilkens has lived constantly in the blinding glare of the spotlight. Every move, every action has been watched, analyzed and criticized.

As a star, he has been subjected to the same pressures that "big money" exerts on every young man.

But they didn't change Lenny Wilkens. The almost shy smile, the quiet mode of lifestyle, the interest and concern he displays for less fortunate human beings, and the beautiful, simple dignity of the man are unchanged in a changing world.

You're a good man, Lenny Wilkens. We salute you!

Pastor Nesse Appointed to College Board

OLYMPIA: Pastor M.E. Nesse of the Christ Lutheran Church in Tacoma has been appointed by Governor Dan Evans to the Board of Trustees of Community College District No. 11, Senator Charles Newschwander announced today.

The district encompasses Pierce County, except for the present boundaries of the common school districts of Tacoma and Peninsula and includes Fort Steilacoom Community College.

Nesse was appointed for a term effective immediately and expiring April 3, 1977.

He organized the Christ Lutheran Church in 1959 and is now its senior pastor.

He is past president of the Pacific District Pastoral Conference and the Lakes District Ministerial Association. He serves on the Evangelism Committee of the North Pacific District and served for two terms on the Board of Regents of Pacific Lutheran University.

Nesse is vice-president of Lakewood Unlimited, serves on the Board of Directors of the Lakewood Rotary Club and is a member of the Lakewood General Hospital Board.

Yamashita Reappointed to College Board

OLYMPIA: Robert M. Yamashita of Tacoma has been reappointed by Governor Dan Evans to the Board of Trustees of Community College District No. 22, State Representative Tom Swayze announced today.

Community College District No. 22 encompasses the present boundaries of the common school districts of Tacoma and Peninsula in Pierce County and includes Tacoma Community College.

Yamashita was originally appointed to the Board in 1969. His new term is effective immediately and expires April 3, 1977.

Since 1968, he has been executive director of the Tacoma Community House. From 1962 to 1968 he was pastor at the Whitney Memorial United Methodist Church in Tacoma.

Yamashita serves on the board of directors of the Tacoma Urban League and is a member of the Japanese American Citizens' League. He is chairman of the Asian Concerns Task Force and serves on the board of directors of the National Federation of Settlements.

He serves on the Teacher Corps Steering Committee, Headstart Policy Committee and the Title I Policy Committee for Tacoma Public Schools.

Yamashita holds a B.D. degree in theology from Garrett Theological Seminary, a B.A. degree in psychology-philosophy from San Jose State College, and a B.S. degree in chemistry from Stanford University. He also studied at Union Theological Seminary under a Fellowship for Continuing Theological Education.

He and his wife have two children. They live at 1531 North Oakes in Tacoma.

Fashion Show

The Matron's Club will present its first all young people Fashion Show Sunday, April 16th at the Top of The Ocean 3 to 7 p.m.

There will be entertainment following the style show. Tickets are available at the door.

Secretary of Army to Speak at Fort Lewis

Fort Lewis, Wash. — Robert F. Froehlke, Secretary of the Army, will be the guest speaker at the April 26 meeting of the Tacoma-Fort Lewis-Olympia Chapter of the United States Army (AUSA) here.

He will also speak at a noon luncheon of the Seattle Rotary Club that day.

The visit will be the Secretary's first to the Pacific Northwest.

To accommodate an expected large turnout, the Chapter plans to have its meeting in Jensen Gymnasium. A social hour is set for 6 p.m., with dinner served at 7:30.

Secretary Froehlke is from Wisconsin and received his law degree at the University of Wisconsin in 1949.

He enlisted in the Army in 1943, served as an infantryman in Europe, and was discharged in 1946 with the rank of captain.

After the war, he became a member of a Madison, Wisconsin, law firm and taught at the University of Wisconsin School of Law.

He joined the staff of a large insurance company in 1951. He was the company's chairman of the board when he was nominated as an assistant secretary of defense in 1969.

He was responsible for all intelligence resources of the Department of Defense, served as chairman of a Blue Ribbon Action Committee, and chairman of the Defense Investigative Review Council.

President Richard M. Nixon nominated him as Secretary of the Army last year, and he took office July 1.

Tacoma Public Library Stimulus Display

Muhammad Speaks, radio broadcase, is now being aired every Sunday morning at 10 a.m. in Tacoma on KYAC, 96.5 on your FM dial. Muhammad's Temple of Tacoma, Washington, 1423 So. K Street is having a day Bar B.Q. Chicken Dinner this Saturday, April 15, from 12 noon until 10 p.m. (Long attire required for visiting sisters.)

As-Salaam-Alaikum
F.O.I., Tacoma, Wash.

The Stimulus displays are intended to stimulate the use of library materials by giving 'real-life' examples.

All the materials used for the displays are loaned through the courtesy of local merchants. No advertising is allowed in conjunction with the display, in accordance with State Laws.

This is a new concept in library service, and it is hoped that it will continue.

Stimulating library patrons to make full use of their library is of major concern to librarians. Many people are put off by the drabness of the printed page. We want to supply visual stimulation so that the books seem alive. Even the most carefully constructed description cannot match the value of seeing an object up close. It goes back to the old "one picutre is worth a thousand words" theory.

The library would appreciate patrons' comments and suggestions. Letters and postcards should be addressed to:

Meet Your Neighbor

Ruby Gray

Ruby Gray has a degree in Sociology from Howard University in Washington, D.C. However, she does not view her B.A. as being important. Thoughtfully, she explained that she did not want to lose the ability to communicate with the people in the community.

Sometimes barriers are immediately set up when a person is aware of your educational background. There is no communication. And conversely speaking, sometimes Blacks who have made it, so to speak, set themselves from the others, therefore causing the same situation. That's not what it's about, today."

"It takes all Blacks working together, regardless of their educational backgrounds or income levels to accomplish our goals and objectives. The Black man with the degree must form a coalition with the Black man in the street to advocate and bring about change in the system—to make the system more responsive to the needs of minorities and the educationally and economically disadvantaged."

Ruby first began working in manpower programs in 1966. Prior to that year she was a librarian for Boeing. Presently, she is Project Supervisor for the Public Employment Program.

"Did you know that 34 percent of those employed on the PEP program are minorities?" she questioned. "Did you know that most minorities and disadvantaged are employed through some federally funded program?"

"It has reached the particular point and time that employment cannot exist for disadvantaged and minorities on the basis of federal funding. We need meaningful programs in the community so that we can have regular jobs in both government and private enterprise. This is one of the goals of the PEP Program—that the cities would retain at least 50 percent of those employed by the program, incorporating them into their regular budgets."

Divorced and the mother of two, Aylse and Tony, Ruby keeps a busy schedule. She is organist for the Shiloh Baptist Church and a member of Miles Memorial C.M.E. She is also a member of Citizens Task Force, Urban League, Puget Sound Chapter 80 Order of the Eastern Star, and Secretary for the O.I.C. Interest Group.

In her office hangs a plaque that Ruby is very proud of. "Be sure to mention it," she said. She was the Upendo's recipient for the 1971 Woman of the Year Award for outstanding community service.

New Caballeros Club to Open Soon

One of the fastest growing social-charity clubs in Tacoma has announced its grand opening in its new facilities on May 6, President Louis Barzar reported.

The Caballeros was formed in 1957, prior to any active Civil Rights movements. Formed by a nucleus of ten minority members, primarily black, the group initially sought to create a social club free from the discrimination experienced at public establishments.

For the first few months, members met in homes for social gatherings. Graduating to rented facilities for a 6 year period, the Caballeros bought their own building in 1963, having then grown to 50 members.

At the same time the members expanded their social sphere to include charitable assistance to those less fortunate. For the past 9 years gifts have been bestowed in the form of annual college scholarships, Christmas and Thanksgiving food baskets, children's Christmas parties, sponsoring Little League teams, contributions to Boy Scouts and financial aid to support research in sickle cell anemia.

Look quickly if you wish to see the remnants of the original 30'x30' club house overlooking Center Street at S. 26th and Cushman, for it is rapidly being engulfed with the addition of a 40'x60' structure which will seat 200 as well as provide live entertainment and spacious dancing facilities. Upon completion, the structure, furnishings and land will approach a total value of $100,000.

Although a private club with present membership over 200, the Caballeros still maintain the same concepts as they have for the past 15 years, namely, that here will not be any barrier to membership pertaining to political, religious, racial or ethnic background.

A.O. Boddie is the contractor performing the new construction and remodeling work.

Scout Recognition Dinner

The Northwest Peninsula District Recognition Dinner will be held at Mason Methodist Chruch on April 21st, honoring District Scouters for their past dedication and hard work.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will be a catered ham dinner with all the trimmings. The cost if $2.50 per person and $5 per couple. Anyone wishing to attend will be more than welcome.

The big event of the evening will be the presentation of the District Award of Merit. This is the highest award that can be given in the District and is similar to the Silver Beaver in its requirements and is presented in the same manner. This year, three Scouters will receive this high honor for outstanding service to boys.

Several other Scouters will also be recognized for service to unit and district work. Training awards will be given to all those who have completed training and a Scout who saved a life will be honored for his heroic deed. Pack and Troop leaders from the Hilltop Community will be among those being honored.

Chairman for the dinner is Mr. Stan Johnson. John Jarstad, City Councilman, will be the keynote speaker.

New Military Policeman "On The Job"

FORT LEWIS, WASH.—Fifty former cooks, clerks and truck drivers are now keeping vigil on miles of post highways and by-ways.

The new military policemen are graduates of training given volunteers in a post-wide recruiting program conducted by the 2nd Military Police Group here.

Their units and job backgrounds are almost as varied as the men themselves. But they seem to all share one thing—they're pleased and proud to be full-fledged members of the Military Police Corps.

Specialist 4 Daniel Floyd was the group's distinguished graduate and chose correctional specialist's work with the post's correctional facility. Since joining the MPs, Floyd has decided to stay in the Army and make military police work his career.

He indicated that he welcomed the opportunity to work with misguided soldiers and assist in their rehabilitation.

"I enjoy working with soliders of my own age and with similar backgrounds," Floyd said, "in helping them make the adjustment back into society. I receive great personal satisfaction from helping them solve their problems and offering advice and assistance in the solution of personal problems and conflicts that inhibit the individual's performance as an effective soldier."

Specialist 5 Arliss C. Harrison, formerly a truck driver with the 513th Transportation Company here, got interested in Military Police work through concern over the complaints and gripes usually associated with military policemen.

Since joining the force, Harrison has found that being a policeman, particularly a military policeman, is often a thankless, unappreciated job.

"I've often stopped people on post," the two-time Vietnam vet said, "just to tell them they need a new taillight or muffler, and immediately they're resentful of you. Often, you're just trying to assist people, and they think you're trying to hassle them."

By way of example, Harrison recounted an amusing story that he'd been involved in several days earlier. "I caught a woman driving the wrong way in the Handy Corner Store parking lot," he said.

"After I explained the situation to her, do you think she understood she was in the wrong? Nope! All the other people were going the wrong way. According to her, she was going the only logical way out of the parking lot. Boy, oh boy!

"Finally, I had to convince her to just turn around and go the wrong way with everyone else," Harrison said with a laugh.

Since joining the Military Police Corps, Harrison has also decided to stay in the Army, and in the MP, naturally.

"I've found dealing with the public the most rewarding part of police work, even if it's sometimes aggravating. I wouldn't want to be in any field other than line duty," Harrison said.

Specialist 4 Stephen Weeks, formerly a helicopter crewman with the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment, joined the nine-week military police training program because he simply wanted a more interesting job.

"I became interested in MP work because I wanted to know more of what was going on around the post," Weeks commented. "I was just curious about police work, and I haven't been disappointed so far. It's a very interesting job."

Weeks said he found the firearm training on the ranges with the 12 gauge shotgun and .45 caliber pistol the most interesting part of the course, but indicated he also enjoyed studying about investigative procedures and the collecting of evidence and information.

Weeks mentioned the opportunity to help others on-post and keep his fellow soldiers out of trouble as the most rewarding aspects of being a military policeman.

"For example," he said, "we occasionally find a soldier who perhaps has had a little too much to drink. It gives you a good feeling when you can get a guy in rough shape back to the barracks without him getting into trouble. It's one nice part of the job."

Weeks remarked that he has noticed one major difference between MPs and other men he has worked with in the Army. "Most MPs talk shop more than guys in other units," he said. "During rap sessions in the barracks, most of the guys will talk about situations they encountered during the day and explain how they handled the problem.

"Usually it's the more experienced MPs doing the talking and us new guys learning how to handle similar situations. I think we all find these sessions very helpful and informative, and it does a lot for unit esprit de corps. I like it," he said in conclusion.

There are over 500 stories in the Military Police Group. These have been three of them.

Spencer Haywood to Speak at TCC

Spencer Haywood, star forward for the Seattle Super Sonics basketball team, will be the guest speaker at the annual Tacoma Community College basketball banquet, scheduled for April 17 at Anton's Restaurant, near Puyallup.

Awards will be presented to the most valuable player, most improved player, and most inspirational player on the 1971-72 TCC Titans. The team shared the championship of the Puget Sound Division with Seattle Central and Skagit Valley.

Coach Don Moseid's Titans compiled a season's record of 22 victories and seven losses.

An award will also be presented to the TCC Booster of the Year. The banquet is sponsored by the Titan Boosters Club, headed by Jerry Vaughan, president.

Dinner is scheduled for 7 p.m., following a no-host social hour at 6 p.m.

Tickets are available from Vaughan's office in Building 20 and other members of the Titan Boosters. Cost of the banquet is $20 per couple for the general public; $15 per couple for members of the Titan Boosters; and $10 per couple for students. Proceeds are used for athletic scholarships at TCC.

House My People—Open House

House My People, Inc., is a non-profit corporation presently in the 14th month contract with the Farmers Home Administration to help 100 families in Pierce and King Counties to self-help build their own homes in mutual cooperation in groups of from 5 to 12 families. The grant is for $176,500 for technical assistance to the families.

The first group of five families have now completed their homes which are around the Church Lake area of Bonney Lake, east of Sumner. The name of their group is the Churchlakers. They have each worked between 1000-1300 hours per family on their homes over a period of ten months. They are now starting their home payments which are based on an interest rate of from 1 percent to 7½ percent for 33 years for the costs of the materials and the lot. (Every 2 years their income level may cause an adjustment of the interest level). All pay full property taxes.

Presently in the House My People program there are 61 families who are now at one stage or another of building. These homes will be located in the Bonney Lake, Orting, Sumner, Graham, Eatonville, Midland, South Hill, south King County, and Auburn areas. Average income level of the families now in the program is $4,300 annually. On the average there are 4 persons in each family. Usually there is some kind of employment of the heads of household although some families are on public assistance. Families are from several racial backgrounds with Caucasian and Amerindian predominately.

House My People, Inc. is sponsored by the Fort Steilacoom Community College. The corporation also receives consultant services from the Division of Community Development of the University of Washington. Much financial assistance and volunteer leaders have come from many churches. Vista volunteers have been on the job, since the beginning of the project as well as a paid staff of 9. Beginnings:

House My People began as a group of five low income families who wanted to help their low income friends in the summer of 1968. "Berry shack" existence was the key concern for some who are settled out migrants. The local O.E.O. multi-service center, Make Opportunity Rehabilitate Economics, Inc., 1831 Main St., Puyallup, helped these families to organize. Also helping were professional medical staff persons who had been volunteering their time in a regular mobile visiting health team. The Sumner Schools helped out and the Sumner Junior High School had a House My People Day in which they raised $500 for the organization. The Sumner City Council gave free space for a month to use the old office. Then the School at low rent made the present office spaces available in the old Senior High School. For two years the organization sought its way with giving direct aid to troubled-housing families. Then a survey made by several University of Washington students with the Div. of Community Development suggested a long term specific project would be helpful. The group chose to seek a self-help housing program. In one year the program was secured. There are now (11) members of the Board of Directors and about 70 members of the corporation.

From the beginnings House My People adopted two principles, (1) that when people work together there is more strength than working alone. (2) that what people do for themselves is better than what others do for you.

The Churchlakers, the first group are offering this open house with one chosen reason, "We've done it, others can do it too!" challenge to other families who are facing housing problems.

The OPEN HOUSE will be from 1-4 p.m., Sunday, April 16, at the sites which are near Church Lake. Signs will lead the way from the top of Ehli Hill above Sumner on Highway 410 at the Old Buckley Highway Road on north to the Church Lake. From 1 to 1:30 will be the ribbon-cutting. Dignitaries have been invited. Then there will be coffee and open house at four of the homes.

The Churchlakers contact person is Basil Wiggins, presesident of Churchlakers, 19412 68th St. East, Bonney Lake, Wash. The Director of House My People self-help housing is Morris Dalton, UN 3-8800 or UN 3-8810, P.O. Box 219, Sumner. Fort Steilacoom Community College contact is Dr. Calvin Watness, 9404 112th St. EA 848-4551. University of Washington Division of Community Development contact is Fred Fortine, Lewis Hall, 543-0908. M.O.R.E. contact is Frank Wright, Director, TH 5-9588. Board of Directors, House My People contact is Paul Hackett, secretary, Board, TH 5-9588 or the President of the Board, Donald Hansen, Rt. 1, Box 391, Sumner, at UN 3-4533.

Notice

At 8:00 on Wednesday, April 19, the San Francisco Mime Troupe will perform the "Dragon Lady's Revenge" at the Shelter Half Coffeehouse. "Revenge" is a sharp and hilarious play on the drug trade in Vietnam. The San Francisco Mime Troupe presents a new way of approaching the problems of American society and seeking change for the better. The Shelter Half is now located at 1902 Tacoma Ave. So. For information call BR 2-5227. The show is free to GI's and donations are requested.

Helicopter Co. Reactivated

FORT LEWIS, WASH.—The 116th Infantry Aviation Assault Helicopter Company has been reactivated here as part of the 10th Aviation Battalion.

The unit, which until last year flew combat support missions from a base at Chu Lai, Vietnam, will operate two dozen Huey and Cobra helicopters.

The company will also conduct an instrument flight school for helicopter pilots.

Captain Jerry W. Ginn, who earned the Distinguished Flying Cross, Bronze Star, and other decorations in Vietnam, commands the unit.

PLU debaters Win Berth In National Tournament

James Collins of Salem, Ore., and Marvin Smith of Tacoma will represent Pacific Lutheran University at the National Debate Tournament in Salt Lake City, Utah, April 14-17.

Only two teams, Gonzaga University and PLU, were selected to represent the northwest states, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming. The University of Wyoming was named as an alternate.

Fifty-four teams from across the country will meet in Salt Lake City to discuss the topic, "Resolved that greater controls should be placed on the gathering and utilization of information about the United States by government agencies."

Collins and Smith, both seniors at PLU, qualified for the national tournament by winning six of eight debates at the District Qualifying Tournament at Western Washington State College March 18-19.

The PLU forensics program is directed by Profs. Richard Capp and Virginia Eman.
